

STORY OF THE FEARFUL FIGHT AT PEKING IN WHICH THE LEGATIONERS PERISHED.

FOUGHT TO THE LAST.

Little Band of Whites Died Most Heroically.

Repelled Chinese Hordes Until Overpowered—Their Heads Cut Off.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.] LONDON, July 15, 3:30 a.m.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "I can assure positively that the Chinese authorities had the dreadful news from Peking a week ago, and that they knew all the foreigners in Peking were dead when he asked the American Consul to cable Washington a proposal to deliver the foreigners in safety at Tien-Tsin on condition that the allies would suspend their operations to the north of Peking."

The correspondent adds certain details of affairs at Peking after June 25. According to his story, the members of the legations made daily sorties, sometimes by night, and were so successful as to compel the Chinese to retreat from the immediate vicinity. These sorties had a disheartening effect upon the Chinese, and there soon began to be open signs of disaffection, followed by desertions to Prince Ching's army, which was endeavoring to co-operate with the legations. Ultimately, Prince Tuan decided to make a night attack with three powerful columns.

"At 6 p.m. on July 6," says the correspondent, "the Chinese opened with artillery upon the British legation, where the foreigners were concentrated. For two hours the walls were battered with shells and shot, and huge branches were made in them. Then a general assault was ordered, and the Chinese infantry, volleys constantly, moved toward the gate. The fire of the defenders, however, was so accurate that hundreds of Chinese soldiers and Boxers broke and fled in the wildest confusion, leaving large numbers of dead and wounded around the legation. They could not be raised until they were out of the rifle-range of the foreigners."

"Then Prince Tuan, making a desperate appeal, induced them to stand and return to the attack. Artillery fire was then resumed, and at the middle watch a second attack was attempted. But before the attackers could accomplish their object, they were met by Prince Ching and Gen. Wang Wen Shao, with their troops, who were going to the aid of the foreigners. A desperate battle ensued between the various forces of Chinese and Manchus."

"Unfortunately, many of Prince Ching's troops deserted to Prince Tuan. Prince Ching fell, and was supposed to have been killed, but it is now believed he was only wounded and was carried off and secreted by his retainers."

"Gen. Wang Wen Shao, although gray-haired and 70 years old, gallantly led his troops in person. He was killed, and his force, which was completely outnumbered, was routed."

"Throughout the night repeated attacks were made on the legations, but these were repulsed with heavy losses. Toward the end of the third watch, about 5 a.m., the allies had practically defeated the besiegers, who were wavering and gradually withdrawing. But just then Gen. Fung Pu Hsing arrived from the vicinity of Tien-Tsin with a large force of Kan Su braves."

"By this time the walls of the legation had been battered down, and most of the buildings were in ruins. Many of the allies had fallen at their posts, and the small band that was left took refuge in the wrecked buildings, which they endeavored hastily to fortify."

"Upon them the fire of the Chinese artillery was now directed. Toward sunrise it was evident that the ammunition of the allies was running out, and at 7 o'clock, as the advance of the Chinese in force failed to draw a response, a rush was made on the legation, and the Chinese, together after the sun rose, the little remaining band of Europeans, met death stubbornly. There was a desperate hand-to-hand encounter. The Chinese lost heavily, but as one man fell others advanced, and finally, overcome by overwhelming odds, every one of the Europeans remaining was put to the sword in the most atrocious manner."

HEADS CUT OFF. The Shanghai correspondent of the Express, on the alleged authority of courtiers who brought the story, gives a very sensational account. He says: "Maddened with hunger, after having been without food for many days, the members of the legation and the guards made a sortie on the night of June 25 and killed 300 Chinese in an unexpected attack. Gen. Tung Fuh Siang, enraged over the loss of his men, ordered his troops to make a night attack on the legation. Prince Tuan gave the order that every foreigner must be destroyed. His words were: 'Destroy every foreigner who is in the legation, and make China a sealed book to all western powers.'"

"Prince Tuan had previously discovered that Prince Ching was supplying the foreigners with ammunition. He therefore, ordered Gen. Tung Fuh Siang to fire on Prince Ching's troops, and it is reported that Ching was killed or seriously wounded. He therefore, ordered Gen. Tung Fuh Siang to fire on Prince Ching's troops, and it is reported that Ching was killed or seriously wounded. He therefore, ordered Gen. Tung Fuh Siang to fire on Prince Ching's troops, and it is reported that Ching was killed or seriously wounded."

"The final attempt to cut their way through the legations formed a square, with the women and children in the center. When the Boxers realized that they were being attacked, they became like wild beasts, and shot each other with revolvers."

"Heavy guns bombarded all night long, and the walls were demolished. In the morning, the Chinese were routed, and in flames. Many foreigners were rescued in the flames. The Boxers rushed upon them and hacked and killed. The Chinese were routed, and in flames. Many foreigners were rescued in the flames. The Boxers rushed upon them and hacked and killed."

"The correspondents add: 'All China is now aflame with revolt against foreigners. Only in the extreme north, where the operations of the Chinese are being resisted, is there any hope. The provinces of Hubei and Hunan, thousands of native Christians have been massacred. The Boxers have been first outraged and then massacred.'"

SHAMING AMERICA. The morning papers are unanimous in believing that the foreigners who were annihilated, and are calling for retribution. The Chronicle comments upon the statement of the Washington correspondent that the United States government will not consider itself at war with China, and says: "The United States government is not at war with China, and is not at war with China, and is not at war with China."

take the consolations without moving another man or gun."

"Emperor William can scarcely take the Washington view, for he has pledged himself to retribution, and he is a man of his word."

The Times publishes a letter from the Peking correspondent, dated June 30, which contains an account, made by a trustworthy person, that the Empress Dowager had decided that every foreigner was to be massacred that night. It also published the last message from the Peking correspondent, dated June 14, when the Boxers had made two attempts to rush the foreign quarter."

Canton dispatches say that Li Hung Chang had planned to start for the north July 15, but he is much delayed. He is the leader of the "Black Flags" to march with 50,000 men overland to Peking against the Boxers.

It is reported from Shanghai that the allied fleets are concentrating off Shanghai Kwan, and have been ordered to shell and capture the forts. The Associated Press learns that 12,000 Japanese troops are now embarking.

Under date of July 15, the Governor of Shanghai says that the operations of the Chinese Imperial maritime customs, on July 5 received the following telegram from her husband: "Our people, including the women, are in the legations. Prepare to hear the worst."

The European governments have received from their representatives at Shanghai a dispatch dated July 7, reporting that the European troops made a sortie from Peking, and killed 600 of Gen. Lung Pu Hsing's forces, and that they were making guns to make a breach in the defenses."

Under date of July 15, the Governor of Shanghai says that the operations of the Chinese Imperial maritime customs, on July 5 received the following telegram from her husband: "Our people, including the women, are in the legations. Prepare to hear the worst."

Admiral Seymour's dispatches give the latest news regarding the situation at Tien-Tsin. Telegrams to the Associated Press show that the operations of the Chinese Imperial maritime customs, on July 5 received the following telegram from her husband: "Our people, including the women, are in the legations. Prepare to hear the worst."

Following is the text of an appeal of Americans in China, assembled in mass meeting in Shanghai, to their fellow-citizens at home:

"We the undersigned, who are Americans in China, assembled in mass meeting in Shanghai, to their fellow-citizens at home:

advices abroad. The present outrage are the result of the weak and vacillating policy of the powers in the past. We urge immediate, energetic and concerted action."

ADVISES ARE BAD.

Sheng Gets His Cable to Work at Shanghai.

Says That the Legations and the Government Were in Peril.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, July 15.—Sheng was as came to Washington today from China was distinctly bad. It consisted of a cablegram to Minister Wu from Shanghai, dated Saturday, July 14, saying:

"The situation is very critical, Sheng considers the situation dangerous."

SHANGHAI SENG. REPLY TO MINISTER WU. WASHINGTON, July 15.—Under date of Shanghai, July 14, Director-General Sheng has cabled Minister Wu here, in reply to his telegram of inquiry, as follows:

"Fearing news of July 7 says that Gen. Tung Fuh Siang, in disobedience of imperial orders, was about to use guns. Legations and the government will be in peril."

This cablegram Minister Wu regarded as of sufficient importance to forward in person directly to Secretary Hay at the latter's home. Sheng's message corroborates the news contained in a recent cablegram from the Consul-General Goodnow at Shanghai, although the Consul-General's dispatch gives his news of the date of the 6th, saying the final attack upon the legations with guns was about to begin on the 7th of July. It is surmised here that Goodnow got his news from Sheng, who is certainly in position to secure the first news from Peking."

Aside from the gloomy forecast given of the end of the terrible struggle of the legations against the inevitable, the significant feature of the message is the coupling of the fate of the imperial government with that of the foreign ministers. Officials here get some satisfaction from this portion of the dispatch, as it contains them in the position they have held from the first, that the Chinese government is not at war with China, but is contending a formidable insurrection."

There still remains a suspicion that while Minister Wu is undoubtedly acting with perfect sincerity, Sheng, who is represented to be a clever and adroit man, may know more of the actual happenings at Peking than he is willing to reveal at once. It is feared that he is trying to prepare the way for the disclosure of terrible news, hoping that by letting it come out gradually, the blow will not fall with such severity, and perhaps with such disastrous results to his own people as might be the case if the whole story was imparted to the world at once. This news, it may be noted, comes entirely from Chinese sources."

It is now twenty-one days since a word has come direct from any of the unfortunates besieged in the legations at Peking. The last message from there was from Sir Robert Hart, the Englishman in charge of the Chinese customs service, and was of undoubted authenticity. It represented the situation of the legations as desperate, and implored help. The last word from Minister Conger came to the State Department under date of June 12. At that time he asked that Seymour's international relief column, which was even then doomed to fail, should signal its approach when near Peking. That was just one month and three days ago, and it would be an unprecedented delay for such an inadequate and ill-equipped and ill-provisioned force as was at the command of the foreign ministers to hold out for that length of time."

Minister Wu's cablegram from Sheng, above given, should not be taken as an answer to the cipher message forwarded at Secretary Hay's request in China, in the effort to get it through to Minister Conger. That message went to Yon Nan Shiki, the Governor of the province of Shanghai. That official has replied that he has no news from the legations, and that he will take prompt steps to forward the cipher message. His status at this critical juncture is unfortunately under suspicion, though Wu retains full confidence in him."

Taku. She was coming out to the Orient by way of Soan, and was to report for orders at Singapore, where she was to be directed to proceed to Manila, or be deflected to North China. She is carrying out a cargo of coal and a number of sailors to recruit the American fleet."

The second dispatch came from Capt Bowman of the gunboat Castine, which is stationed at Shanghai, and was also dated today. It was as follows:

"SHANGHAI, July 15.—Secretary Navy, Washington: Rodgers sends word Oregon passed Che Foo 12th, New York conveying."

"It is supposed at the Navy Department that Rodgers of the Massachusetts signaled this information from his ship as he passed Che Foo. The distance from Che Foo to the Krua docks, where the Oregon is bound, is about seven hundred miles, and as Che Foo was passed last Thursday, it is estimated here that the crippled battleship is now nearing the Straits of Malacca, through which the most direct route to get up to the docks."

Minister Wu feels a natural irritation at the statements printed in some quarters that the Chinese in the United States are making ready to return to China, and that they sympathize with the Boxers and are lending them financial aid. He declares, in the most earnest manner, that there is not a word of truth in these statements. He says that all of the Chinese in the United States come from Southern China and are altogether out of sympathy with the northern Chinese. In fact, they do not even speak the same language. He is sure there is not a single case of the northern Chinese in the United States, and if they were, they would meet with the hostility of the Canton men. As for the latter, the Minister declares that they are entirely satisfied with their condition in this country, and could not be persuaded to return to China to give aid to a government opposed to America."

The government here has taken note of the efforts made in some quarters to stir up an agitation against the peaceable Chinese in the United States. It feels as if it were imperatively necessary to use the entire resources of the government to suppress any movement that would jeopardize the safety. Anything like a massing of Chinese in the United States would wreck the whole cause of the United States government in the final settlement of the Chinese trouble. One government could not demand compensation for indemnities from Chinese without happening at Peking or elsewhere in China if it is the principle, through the violence of our people, were put in position to claim a set-off, growing out of violence shown to people in the United States. Therefore, steps have been taken already to have the authorities in localities where there may be danger of anti-Chinese outbreaks prepare for the promptest and most stern repressive measures at the first symptom of trouble, and it may be stated that there will be no halting in the use of Federal troops for such purposes if they are called for by the State officials."

STORMED THE BREACH. [A. P. NIGHT REPORT.] SHANGHAI, July 15.—An official telegram was received tonight from the Governor of Shanghai, stating that a breach was made in the wall of the British legation at Peking after a gallant defense, and when all the ammunition had given out all foreigners were killed."

BATTLING AT TIEN-TSIN.

Allies Defeat Chinese With American Help.

Japanese Officials Get a Report of Legations Holding Out.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, July 15.—The Japanese legation today received the following telegram from the Japanese officials, under date of Taku, July 9, transmitting advice received from Che Foo under date of July 7:

"Tien-Tsin telegram of July 6 reported that 10,000 Chinese army, with artillery under Ma (name of a general in the Chinese army) made appearance near Tien-Tsin, July 4, and several taken by allies a week ago was recaptured by them. Chinese city of Tien-Tsin fortified by Chinese soldiers. From north, report comes that Chinese forces are moving, and Tien-Tsin considered critical. Communication with Tien Ka threatened. On July 6, by steamer Sakuramara, Japanese residents left for Taku."

Another telegram, received at the Japanese legation without the sender's name, but supposed to be forwarded by the Japanese Consul-General at Shanghai, reported that Sheng, the Shanghai Taotai (Governor), received a telegram from Tzu Nan Shiki, the Governor of Shanghai, stating that a courier had arrived at Tien-Tsin bringing the following Peking news:

"Two legations stood up to July 4 against attacks of Chinese. Legations quailed little about two thousand Chinese soldiers and Boxers in several engagements. If provisions and ammunition last, they will be able to hold out, as the Chinese troops and Boxers seem to be tired of attacking."

many magnificent rooms of the palace, preceded by a gorgeous guard in liver of scarlet and gold, and bearing stately robes of charlaine

and other court officials, to the private apartment, wherein their majesties

were pleased to receive us.

The living rooms of Spain's reigning family are on the second floor of the palace, and the young King of Spain

resides in the White House. The Queen

Regent's morning room, into which we were ushered, is a very large and lofty, but rather bare apartment, (perhaps because just now the summer clothing is with echoing marble floors,

rich furniture and long, undraped wholesome looking tones of the mountains. It seemed to me at which is rarer and more potent than

"home sense." She is a very well-read woman and a good conversationalist, wielding a powerful influence over friends and acquaintances when she chooses to exert it. As a musician she particularly excels, far beyond the average. In the select musings that frequently occur in the royal palace, it is said that she not only criticizes the efforts of the best performers

in the land, but often takes the player's place herself, in order to show how difficult passages should be rendered.

It is owing to her simple tastes that the strictness of Spanish etiquette at court has been greatly relaxed—an improvement not altogether pleasing to the pride and fastidiousness of the old régime, who infinitely prefer all the rigors of the ancient ceremonial, which permitted only highest in the land to approach the reigning family on bended knees.

A WORKINGMEN'S COLLEGE.

Success of Novel Idea in Great Britain.Proposed American School On a Plan
Similar to That of Ruskin Hall.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 4.—Two enthusiastic young Americans came over here and put their time and money into the establishment of a novel institution that made a good many conservative Englishmen smile. The English workmen, however, do not seem to be convinced that the American idea was a good thing, and helped it along. It grew and grew, until there was no doubt about its being a big success,

and now, oddly enough, English workmen are raising $20,000 in shillings and pence to propagate in the United States the idea that originally came from there, and incidentally some of the English workmen are kicking because their brethren are doing this thing.

The idea was to establish a workmen's college, to which a man might go, or from which he might get course of study at home. That sound rather dreamy, like some of the economic ideas of John Ruskin, in whose name

the work was taken up. But it developed recently that it was for the purpose

to make struggling clerks and professional men out of well-paid laborers;

also, that it was not the intention to teach the students to be better workmen, but merely to give workmen of whatever age or condition, and to give them a course of political, economic, and social science, and to give them a course of

Smith did more things of moment than he is credited with. He has been perished in the two years wherein he was the actual as well as the nominal leader. He sailed up many of the streams flowing into the Chesapeake Bay, and he has been observed in London, and on which there are no lies. A serious injury by the accidental explosion of gunpowder thrust him back to the States, toward the States of New York and Virginia.

He spent the rest of his days in exploring the North American coast, to which he gave the name New Brunswick, in honor of his chief, and in promoting American colonization by his writings and his words. Most worthy the title of Admiral of New England was bestowed upon him in 1817. In 1819, at the same place was found for him in the choir of St. Sepulchre's Church. A witty and not wholly unjust judgment was passed of him in his lifetime by quaint and pious writers, who said that "such" "such his perils, preservation, dangers, deliverances, they seem to most men beyond belief, to some beyond all." Yet we have two witnesses to attest that he was a man of God, and both in his own book and in his picture.

ELECTRICAL TANNING.

A NEW PATENT WHICH HAS BEEN TAKEN OUT IN GERMANY.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES
NEW YORK, July 7.A patent has been taken out by General Electric for a new kind of high hides by making them conductors of electricity. They are stretched across a perforated metal plate, or rubbed with plumbago and made to receive in their inner tissue, by electrolysis, a metallic substance. In the former plan, the hides are stretched tightly across the plate which forms a perfect metallic conductor, assuring the integrity of the contact. In order to facilitate the circulation of the medium carrying the current, the conductors or plates should be provided with setting with small needles may be used. The plates, which serve as cathodes, are of the same material and shape as the anodes. The plates are coated or impregnated with a suitable substance, so as to increase their conductivity, they are first soaked in a solution of acetate of lead, and then transferred to a solution of lead or lead acetate. The plates are then deposited in the fibrous tissue. After being thoroughly washed, the hide thus prepared may be suspended in a suitable bath, and duly receive its saturation of preservative material. The baths used are principally consist of tannin or saline containing tannin. In some cases, it is found feasible to accelerate the process without injury to the leather.

The addition is then increased by the use of medium of certain salts or acids. These, acting upon the pores of the hide, exercise a plumping effect, which facilitates the tanning of the leather and improves the quality of the leather. Only a moderate current is employed. The tanning may be commenced with 50 to 100 amperes per square yard of hide surface, and the current gradually increased. The process is complete, the leather is taken out and finished in the usual way.

[Omaha Bee:] Margaret Archer of New York, 14 years old and very pretty, a heroine today. She was being attacked by a burglar in her room at 187 Tillary street, and with the aid of her father threw the man out of a second story window in the stone flagging below.

Miss Archer was awakened by hearing some one cough. Thinking it was her brother, who occupies a room above her, she asked:

"Is that you, Robert?"

The burglar, thus challenged, burst in: "If you scream I'll kill you."

Now a threat like that was just pie in the sky for her.

Then began a wrestling match that was nearly to the death. The young Mike had no time to draw a stungshot as he broke the other's back. He told some piano-wire fingers about his aunt he knew that he had no child, no screaming woman to deal with. That basket ball grip tightened on his windpipe as he fought for his life. He moved toward the open window. Suddenly were bounded into the room Michael Carberry, too, and the athletic coach. The girl brushed her brother aside as she rushed toward the other half of the warrior.

"But with him!" she panted, and even then the words, "two, three," the "four," and the "five" came through the half-closed wire screen down into the book yard, thirty feet below.

Young Carberry rushed down the flight of stairs and found a policeman, and the girl, who was right next the burglar, whose blood spots across the stairs they easily followed. He was moving.

"I give up," he cried. "That was ten years ago. I can't remember. What a thrill it was! I feel her fingers yet around my neck."

He was recognized as Robert Archer, well known about the neighborhood.

BOY'S TERRIBLE DEATH.

Both Legs Ground Off by Car Wheels.

Result of Ventresca Play on Alameda Street in This City.

With both legs cruelly mangled by the wheels of a Southern Pacific train, little Bert Hopcraft, aged 12 years, was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital on West Seventh street last evening, where he expired about 5 o'clock.

The boy, his brother, 15 years old, and several other youngsters were playing along the Southern Pacific tracks on Alameda street. The games were of a boisterous nature, and the boys were wrestling and chasing one another back and forth across the street.

A passenger train coming into town passed by. It was not moving at a high rate of speed, and the youngsters amused themselves by running beside the train. Bert Hopcraft and another boy were especially ventresca, wrestling with one another in their attempts to get close to the train, and striking the cars with their hands.

The boys had followed the train in this manner for some distance. Opposite the Union Ice Company's factory on Alameda street just south of First street, young Hopcraft tripped, and to the horror of his comrades, fell and by his legs across the rails. With remarkable presence of mind the older of the Hopcraft boys seized the fallen and by his shoulders attempted to drag him away from the approaching train, but to no avail. The wheels of one car truck passed entirely over both of the unfortunate boy's legs, mangle the fatal wounds which caused his death. The body was dragged out from under the cars by another set of wheels, and was about to run over the limbs. The fast patrol wagon was sent for, and the injured boy was carried to the Good Samaritan Hospital. Dr. Ralph Hagan made an examination, and quickly decided that amputation was necessary. One of the legs was broken above the knee, and the other just below. The boy was bleeding profusely from his wounds.

The broken bones were temporarily set at the Police Station, and the few of blood stopped, and then the suffering lad was started on his journey to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where the operating table was already being prepared.

When the boy was taken from the ambulance it was seen that death was almost certain, and it came before the doctors had begun their labors. The boy's legs, mangled and the loss of blood had been so great that the boy had been unable to endure. The coroner's office was notified, and the body was removed to Booth & Boylston's undertaking establishment, where the funeral will be held today.

It is probably that no blame for the accident will be attached to the railway company, as it is said that the train was not running at an illegal rate of speed. The recklessness of the street children who play about every passing train causes thrills of horror to all beholders, but accidents such as yesterday's are rare.

The dead boy lived with his mother and brothers at No. 553 San Julian street.

VIRAGO'S VIOLENT OUTBREAK
She Resists Arrest and Keeps the Officers Busy.

Man in the Case Makes His Escape, Though Pursued.

A furiously drunken woman and her paramour were having a highly exciting time pummeling each other in a room of a disreputable lodging-house near the corner of Third and Los Angeles streets last night about 9:30 o'clock. The noises emanating from the room were heard on the street, and the police on the beat were soon beating on the door and demanding admittance in order to quell the riot.

Officers Lennon and Murphy were first on the scene. Calling across to the room, they beheld the fighting pair, the woman with a cut mouth and the man with a black eye.

The patrol wagon had been sent for, and Officer Shand, who rides with the jail bus, arrived as a reinforcement before hostilities between the roomers were unavailing. "Annie" simply would not agree to a treaty of peace. She applied innumerable epithets to the policemen, and the man, who was a powerful fellow, refused to be taken into custody.

Arriving at the Police Station, the handcuffs were taken off, and the roomers made her threats good by immediately planting her very burly father in the neighborhood of Mr. Shand's beating ribs. Other officers interfered, and Annie was bestowed behind the bars, proclaiming at every step that she could challenge any individual policeman that would stand up and make a fair fight.

The woman was booked for disturbing the peace. The man who escaped is known to the officers, and he will probably be secured to answer for his breach of the city's quiet.

California Asphalt.

A special to The Times from Pittsburgh, Pa., says that on Monday in the United States Circuit Court there an injunction will be sought against the use of trust asphalt on the Pittsburgh streets. John Ryan took a bicycle ride yesterday morning with results disastrous to himself. While riding on Third Street about 9:25 o'clock on his way home, he was run into by an ice wagon that turned around the corner of First and Vine street just as the wheelman was passing. Ryan was knocked down and the heavy vehicle passed over him, breaking his right leg at the hip joint. The injured rider was sent to the Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Hagan set the bone, and then had his patient removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital on West Seventh street. At last reports Ryan was resting easily.

Meet and Pass Resolutions Against the Murderous Bots.

Wong Yee Chow presided over an exceedingly interesting meeting of 150 of the Chinese merchants and residents of this city, held last evening at their Board of Trade rooms, to give expression to their views on the present crisis in China. The meeting was probably the most influential one ever held here by the Chinese of Los Angeles, and the following resolutions were unanimously and emphatically adopted:

"We, the representatives of the Chinese residents of the city and county of Los Angeles, Cal., U.S.A., in meeting assembled this 18th day of July, 1900, in the city of Los Angeles, Cal., knowing that the matter of public information that serious, grave and horrible events are occurring in the city of Peking and the country round about and in the northern portion of the empire of China; and, whereas, while we do not come from that portion of the empire, neither have we anything in common with the persons residing therein, excepting that we are all subjects of the Chinese empire; and, whereas, we wish to express to the people of the United States of America that we abhor and detest the actions of the perpetrators of these horrible deeds, and, further, we pray for the success of the arms of this country and all other countries in restoring peace; and, it is further

"Resolved, that a copy of the within be sent to the honorable the Secretary of State of this country to express our utter condemnation of the actions of all persons who are enemies to peace in China, and to express our deep sympathy with the families of those who have lost, or who lose, their lives in connection with the present abominable disturbances.

[Signed] "WONG YEE CHOW, "LOUI LO, "CHAN KIN SING."

There are some vowel sounds that the wearers of poor-fitting artificial plates pronounce with difficulty. Perfect articulation depends upon perfection in fit and application.
